Grant Submission Cycle

A little bit of application wisdom...

- Write clearly, be succinct, check spelling and grammar
- Follow instructions in the application to the letter, and in order, paying close attention to the agency's objectives and criteria.
- Ask colleagues – including from other fields – to review and critique your proposal. Get feedback on the “grantsmanship” of the proposal as well as the scholarship.
- Spend time on your application. A last minute application will present and read like one.

Post-Award

The process following the announcement of an award and how the research project is managed.

Key Points

1. Agency Decisions/Results

3. Award Set Up

2. Compliance

4. Award Management

A little bit of post award wisdom...

- If you have any compliance requirement you must have an up-to-date approved protocol before funds can be released.
- Research Funds will send you the account number via email (please check your junk folders).
- Specific conditions related to your award will be listed on the Notice of Award you receive.
- Read the financial guidelines for your award, it will save you time in the long run.
