

This talk will introduce you to the field of Medical Physics, with a specific focus on the work in radiation therapy. In addition to the physics and biology background, we will cover academic paths as well as pragmatic aspects of the career of a Medical Physicist working in a hospital setting.