

Research Assistant opportunity -- closing date January 27

Humanities+ (H+) is a skills development + work-integrated learning (WIL) experience program that offers students in Humanities-based programs a unique opportunity to prepare for life after graduation. The program is in its fifth year. Program administrators have collected data under a university-approved ethics certificate since 2023.

We are seeking a PhD student to support the ongoing analysis and continued collection of program data and impacts, with a goal to prepare a manuscript for publication.

Hours & Remuneration

70 hours at current CREW rates for PhD students, to begin in February 2025, ideally. Expected hours per week are flexible, up to a maximum of 5 hours/week.

Supervisors

Dr. Sandra Gabriele (Professor, Department of Communication Studies)

Dr. Janette Barrington (emeritus staff, Centre for Teaching & Learning)

Duties

- Generate a review of the literature
- In collaboration with the research team:
  - Create a rubric to analyze recorded pre- and post- interviews designed to capture program outcomes
  - Generate a thematic analysis of approximately recorded pre-and post-program interviews
  - Contribute to the development of a post-program survey and generate an analysis of results
  - Organize and facilitate a focus group with current H+ participants and alumni (timing and funding permitting)

Qualifications

- Strong interest in the Humanities + program, with its focus on undergraduate student skill development and career readiness
- Strong interest in being part of a publication team
- PhD student in a humanities or social sciences discipline (exceptional Masters students will be considered)
- Demonstrated understanding and experience with qualitative and quantitative research methods
- Excellent writing and teamwork skills
- Experience working on a project team
- Highly motivated with an ability to work independently and take initiative

To apply, please send your curriculum vitae with a short email outlining:

- how you meet the qualifications outlined above

- available number of hours to work per week over the winter and summer 2025 semesters
  - confirmation that you are a registered PhD student at Concordia for the winter and summer terms (expected to be registered), and a student in good academic standing who has not been found guilty of academic misconduct
  - your familiarity with the literature relating to skill development and career development (asset; preference will be given to those already familiar with this literature)
- For questions and to apply, please contact the H+ Program Lead, Megan Marcoux. Closing date for applications is January 27.

Sandra Gabriele, PhD
Professor
Department of Communication Studies
Concordia University \\\ Université Concordia

+1 514 848-2424, poste 4313